High Schools Hold Outdoor Commencements

Voting For State Primary Starts Aug. 22

By SCOTT JACKSON

In less than a month's time, Quincy residents will be able to head to the polls to vote early in the Sept. 1 state primary.

The city will offer seven days of early voting ahead of the state primary election and residents will also have the chance to vote by mail this year. State lawmakers approved the early voting period and the vote-by-mail option for this fall's election cycle to ensure residents could still cast ballots despite the coronavirus pandemic.

Early voting for the state primary will begin on Saturday, Aug. 22, and continue through Friday, Aug. 28.

There are two locations for early voting in Quincy this year.

On Aug. 22 and 23, early voting will take place inside the gymnasium at North Quincy High School. The polls will be open there from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. both days.

From Aug. 24 to 28, early voting will be held inside the Great Hall on the second floor of the McIntyre Government Center (Old City Hall), 1305 Hancock St., from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. each day.

City Clerk Nicole Crispo said officials will take a

Health Commissioner Urges Residents To Continue To Take Steps To Help Stop COVID-19

By SCOTT JACKSON

Health Commissioner Ruth Jones on Tuesday said residents cannot let their guard down and need to keep taking steps to stop the spread of COVID-19 with Quincy seeing an uptick in cases in recent weeks and three restaurants now closed after employees tested positive for the virus.

The total number of confirmed COVID-19 in the city since March reached 1,384 on Monday, with 15 more cases reported since Friday. Of those cases, 1,140 have recovered and 135 have died.

There are now 57 active COVID-19 cases in Quincy. Jones said: there had been as few as eight active cases in the city earlier this month. The bulk of cases seen in recent weeks have been individuals in their 20s and 30s, she added.

Jones said residents need to take the steps that helped lower the case rate in the first place, including wearing masks correctly and social distancing.

"I think people need to be responsible. They have to wear masks and wear them correctly so that their

Senate Passes $17 Billion Transportation Bond Bill

By SCOTT JACKSON

A $17 billion transportation bond bill approved by the Senate includes funding for the MBTA, upgrades to the pier at Squantum Point Park and water transportation network improvements among other items.

The Senate approved the transportation bond bill on July 16. The House of Representatives had approved its own transportation bill earlier this year. The Senate bill, unlike the one approved by the House, does not include an increase in the gas tax.

"The Senate's position is that we are still looking at the revenue picture and trying to determine what is going to be the best way to approach it," Sen. John Keenan, a Quincy Democrat, said in a recent interview.

The Senate bill includes funding for numerous transportation projects across the state, including work on the Cape Cod bridges, rebuilding a section of the Massachusetts Turnpike in Allston, and expanding commuter rail service to the South Coast.

If the bill is signed into law, the governor would have the discretion to pick the projects for which funds would be released, Keenan said.

"The way the bonding process works is the legislature passes a bond that authorizes the governor to borrow money to work on certain transportation projects. Once we pass it, the governor has discretion as to what items within the bond bill he chooses to spend money on," Keenan said.

"We pushed to get local priorities in there. It does not mean those things are going to happen, but it means the governor has the authority to expend money on those priorities. So, you want to get them in there and then make the case, 'this is a priority, you have the authority to spend on it. Let's move forward.'"

The Senate bill includes $3.43 billion for the MBTA, Keenan said.

"I have been a regular

Should you go back to a 30-year mortgage?

People are thinking about mortgages differently. Right now we're seeing borrowers who went with shorter terms going back to a 30-year loan. Some are tapping their equity for home improvements, college tuition or to consolidate other debt at a locked-in guaranteed low rate. Others just want a more comfortable monthly payment, less stress and more cash flow. It works because mortgage rates are still so low. And if you want, you can always pay the new 30-year loan off more aggressively, but you don't have to. Would a new 30-year mortgage make sense for you? Come see us or call VP/Retail Lending Angela Blanchard at 617-471-0750 or apply online at colonialfed.com. Colonial Federal, a bank with ideas.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Aug. 13, 1899, Alfred Hitchcock is born in London. His innovative mastery of suspense made him one of the most popular and influential filmmakers of the 20th century. In 1925, he directed his first movie, "The Pleasure Garden," a silent film.

• On Aug. 11, 1934, a group of federal prisoners classified as "most dangerous" arrives at Alcatraz Island, a 22-acre rocky outcrop situated 1 1/2 miles offshore in San Francisco Bay. The convicts were the first civilian prisoners to be housed in the new high-security penitentiary.

• On Aug. 16, 1948, baseball legend George Herman "Babe" Ruth dies in New York City. For two days following, his body lay in state at the main entrance to Yankee Stadium, and tens of thousands of people stood in line to pay their respects.

• On Aug. 15, 1969, the Woodstock music festival opens on Max Yasgur's 600-acre farm in upstate New York, with folk singer and guitarist Richie Havens kicking off the event. Approximately 400,000 people attended, most of whom did not pay for the $24 tickets.

• On Aug. 14, 1971, St. Louis Cardinals ace Bob Gibson throws his first career no-hitter in an 11-0 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates. In 1964 Gibson won his first World Series Most Valuable Player Award.

• On Aug. 10, 1984, the action thriller "Red Dawn" opens in theaters as the first movie with a PG-13 rating. The Motion Picture Association of America created the PG-13 category to indicate film content with a "higher level of intensity" than PG.

• On Aug. 12, 1990, fossil hunter Susan Hendrickson discovers three huge bones jutting out of a cliff near Faith, South Dakota, part of the largest Tyrannosaurus rex skeleton ever found. Back To School During A Pandemic

Tips From The Better Business Bureau

By BETTER BUSINESS BUREAU

Back-to-school season is coming up, and in some areas, it's unclear how it will play out. Dozens of states across the United States are grappling with an increase of COVID-19 cases as they make decisions about when and how to continue teaching. Canadian provinces, such as Ontario, are posting guidelines on how schools should reopen for the 2020-2021 school year.

As families prepare for the upcoming school year and the possibility of homeschooling from the kitchen table or the announcement of their school district to switch to an online format, National Retail Federation studies indicate back-to-school spending may reach a new record with anticipated spending in more laptops and computer accessories driving the costs. Parents with elementary through high school children are expected to spend an average of $789.49, topping the previous record of $696.70 from last year. Overall spending is expected to total $33.9 billion, up from $26.2 billion last year and breaking the record of $30.3 billion set in 2012.

Before determining what students may need for the year, be prepared for a shift from one teaching format to another, and set a budget. Planning ahead, as much as you can, will help keep expenses to a minimum and help everyone involved stay on task. BBB recommends the following tips when looking for school related items, either in person or online:

In Person Shopping

Retailers are taking extra precautions as they reopen to customers, as they try to recover from the financial hit of the lockdown earlier this year while following local health department guidelines. Mask mandates, social distancing, availability of hand sanitizer and other precautions are in place for many places. When it comes to trying on the latest fall fashions or the right fit for school uniforms, parents may want to contact the retailer ahead of time to check on the dressing room procedures or if the dressing rooms are open. You may want to follow CDC guidelines for cleaning and disinfecting your items when you get home.

Research big ticket items

Check with your child's school to find out their technology requirements, and determine if you need to purchase high-speed internet.

Before purchasing an expensive laptop, tablet or other computer accessory, research the brands, warranty, customer reviews and the prices at various stores to make certain the best deal can be had. Also, look up the retailer's reputation on BBB.org.

Consider buying in bulk

If meeting in person, some teachers may ask parents to buy bulk items (think paper towels, tissues, wipes, hand sanitizer) for the entire classroom to use throughout the year. Compare lists with other parents and see if costs can be shared.

Shop wisely, safely online

When shopping online, be wary of click bait ads that feature items that imply that you may want or need it based on the search history. The intended purpose is to drive you to a different website to potentially steal personal information. Take note of the ad and go to the store's website by directly typing into the search bar. Make note of the website's privacy policy, contact information, and always use a credit card when making a purchase.

Look for more information and tips to use on BBB.org/coronavirus.

BBB Tip: Scammers Steal Addresses Of Empty Homes For Rental Cons, Phony Stores And More

By BETTER BUSINESS BUREAU

For years, BBB has warned consumers against doing business with callers and online companies who don't have a valid physical address. Scammers, never easily deterred, have found a way to associate an address with their shady dealings, and this has led to the birth of even more scams.

Homeowners with multiple properties, consumers, and renters need to be aware of several scams that start with the address of a house, apartment, or property that is currently unoccupied.

Businesses Using Fake Addresses

Scammers will try to sell all kinds of counterfeit or non-existent products online. Common scams involve the sale of high-dollar large items, such as RVs and cars, puppies, and brand name clothing, usually at steeply discounted (too-good-to-be-true) prices. They often use images they've harvested from legitimate websites to convince consumers the products exist.

To give their scheme a more reputable appearance, scammers are now adding a physical address to their websites or online product listings. Where do they get the address? They find a vacant property and simply add it to their listing. A quick web search may reveal that the "business address" is located in a residential area, a vacant place of business, or the same address as a real, but unrelated business.

Phony Rental Scams

Scam reports indicate that many con artists steal online rental listings – including the photos of the house or apartment and the property description – and create their own listings, which look legitimate but contain the scammer's contact information instead of the property owner's or rental agent's. They may work out a deal with you over the phone, insisting that because of an emergency or circumstances outside of their control, they won't be able to meet you in person or show you the property. Instead, they may invite you to drive by and send you a contract by mail or email.

Once you've signed the contract, they ask for your deposit and first month's rent. In return, they will mail you the keys to the property. Your check or wired funds will be received, but no key will ever be sent in return, and the scammers will vanish into thin air.

Scammers are also using vacant addresses for even more sinister purposes.

Some scammers look for vacant homes that don't seem well-cared for – a "For Sale" sign, lack of an alarm system, and an unkempt lawn may be all it takes. After identifying a target, they actually break into the home, set up their own rental listing and give tours to potential renters. In a few cases, renters have lived in a home and paid a false landlord for months before the truth comes to light.

How to Avoid Vacant House Scams

Tips for owners of unoccupied houses:

- Secure all windows and doors to your vacant property. It may seem obvious, but door and window locks can get overlooked – especially if you're busy with the hustle and bustle of a move. Keep intruders out by double checking the locks before you leave the property.

- Maintain your property. A lawn and house that looks cared for will discourage scammers from targeting your property. If you live far away, hire a reputable lawn care company to come at regular intervals, set up automatic sprinklers, and keep the contact information for a trustworthy local handyman nearby.

- Give an extra key to a friend or neighbor. Ask them to check up on your home periodically. This is also important in case someone needs to give a handyman or the police access to your property and much safer than a lockbox.

- Keep your alarm system up and running. This will be a huge protection for your unoccupied home. If you can't afford the expense of an alarm system, it doesn't hurt to keep an alarm system sign posted in the front yard. You could also consider installing a surveillance doorbell that can show you who has been on the premises, in real time.

- Put a hold on the mail. A mailbox overflowing with junk mail is a tell-tale sign no one is home and could attract scammers, thieves, and other suspicious individuals. It's best to have your mail forwarded to your new address or a P.O. box.

- Consider purchasing vacant home insurance. Most vacant home insurance plans cover acts of vandalism, fires, and weather-related damage. Ask your

More Concise Quincy Track Club Endures In 47th Season

'The Kids Have Fun, They're Learning Something, And Are Mentored By Real Athletes'

By JACQUELINE NICOLE COLEMAN

Since 1974 The Quincy Track club has created opportunities for youngsters in Quincy and surrounding towns to learn, compete and just have fun in the sport of track and field.

Started in 1974 by Frank Kelly, the club has perhaps witnessed thousands of youngsters running on the oval whether it be at Veterans Stadium, Sterling (now South-West) Middle School, Cavanaugh Field or the new Faxon Field Complex on Southern Artery.

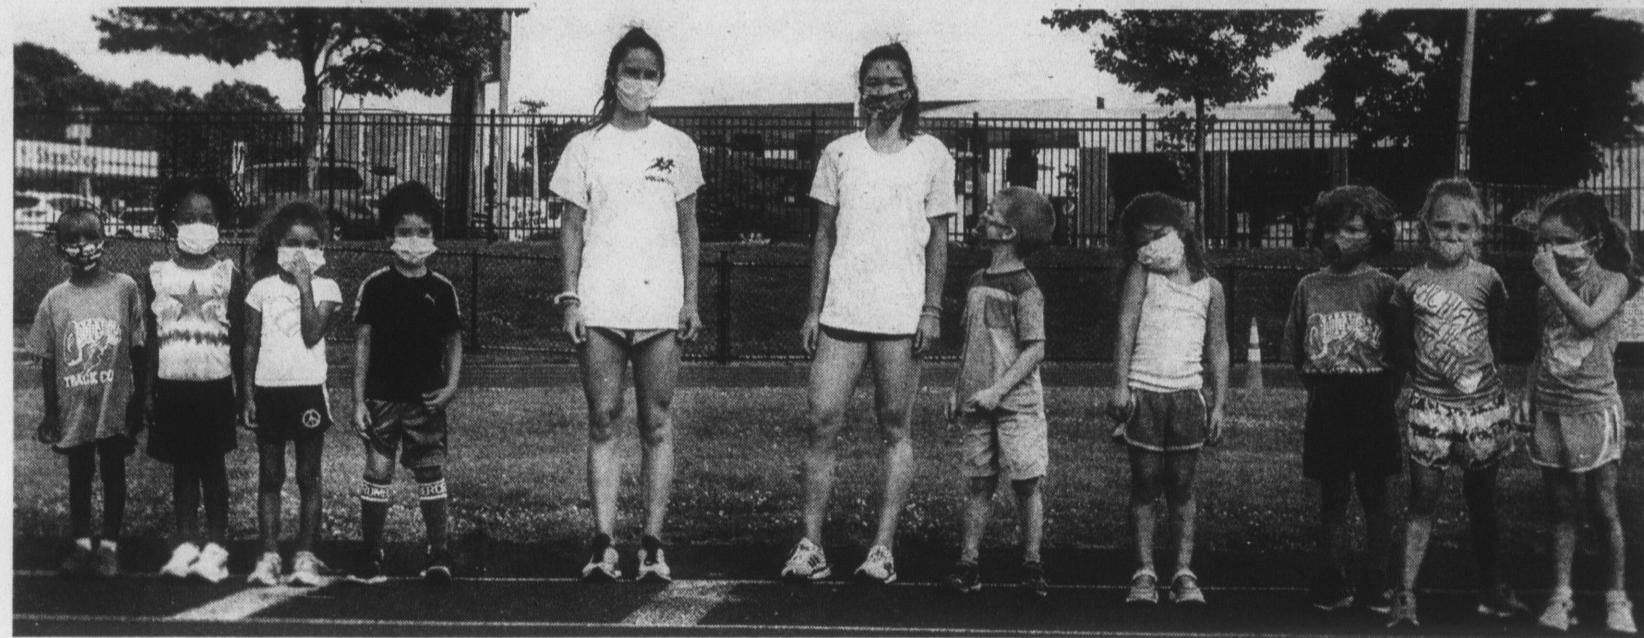

"Frank Kelly wanted a program similar to the Koch Club where any kid, regardless of talent or income would have the chance to compete," said QTC Director Geoff Hennessy who now takes the helm for the 47th season. Hennessy has been opening the gate and setting up since 1977 after starting in 1974 as a staffer working with hurdlers.

Kelly's untimely death in 1976 spelled a possible end to the program but the staff, along with Kelly's widow Irene, and daughter Janice, put heads together and kept the program afloat. Over the years as the diversity of the city has become more complex, so has the club which is open to anyone aged 5 to 14. The staff, largely comprised of high school and college athletes who have competed for Hennessy, who is also the head coach of the Quincy-North Quincy Cooperative Track and Cross Country teams, also reflects a diverse racial and ethnic group of young men and women.

With the COVID-19 pandemic curtailing much of sports and education this past spring and into the summer, Hennessy made the decision to put on a smaller more concise version of the program offering it Monday through Thursday just for the month of July.

"We had to do something," said Hennessy. "People were getting cabin fever. We just kept it word of mouth this year so as to not be inundated with numbers." The plan was to do six rotating stations plus a kids boot camp with 10 kids at each for 10 minutes which comprised an hour. So far the plan has worked.

The club, in its present state, almost resembles the Olympics themselves with children whose parents hail from a multitude of foreign countries as well as kids whose parents ran for Hennessy years ago. Families have moved here because of Quincy's closeness to jobs in Boston, a convenient the National Division III Championship with Emily and Julia Bryson plus Devin Hiltunen, all club alumni as well as North Quincy High stars along with New Jersey runner Doyon Odigun. Emily Bryson was a three-time NCAA champion adding the mile and 3000 meters to her resume. The Brysons and Hiltunen have also lent their expertise as staff working with the kids all through high school and college.

"Our club offers a stepping stone into many sports," said Hennessy. "With the influx of Asians, Africans and Europeans into the city many do not know baseball and football, but they all can run, jump or throw."

From there who knows in a few years the next high school state champion could be running around on Faxon field this summer?

Social Security Matters

Ask Rusty – Working While Collecting Social Security

By RUSSELL GLOOR
AMAC Certified Social Security Advisor
Association Of Mature American Citizens

Dear Rusty: In 2019 I was out of work for an extended period. I was eligible to begin receiving retirement benefits (at age 63) and started to do so in August. My part time job was limited so it did not conflict with my Social Security amount, but in October through the end of 2019 I went back to my old industry at four times the pay rate. My understanding is that I will need to pay Social Security back about $1.40 for every benefit dollar they have paid me while I worked at the higher wage. When and how is that paid? Signed: Part Time Again

Dear Part Time Again: If you started your Social Security benefits in August of last year at age 63, for the remainder of 2019 you were subject to the "first year rule" which means you had a monthly earnings limit of $1,470 after your benefit started. If you exceeded that monthly limit starting in October of 2019 and for the rest of the year, you won't be entitled to benefits for the months of October, November and December. Social Security will consider that an overpayment, and they will want you to repay all those benefits to them. However, if it would be to your advantage to do so, you can request that Social Security use the annual earnings limit for 2019, instead of the monthly limit. For example, if using the 2019 annual earnings limit ($17,640) would result in a smaller impact to your benefits, Social Security may accommodate your request to use the annual limit. Depending upon your total earnings in 2019, you may want to consider asking that the annual earnings limit be used, instead of the monthly limit, when determining your 2019 impact for exceeding the earnings limit.

Starting in 2020 you'll be subject to an annual limit of $18,240 (limit changes yearly). If you exceed the annual limit, SS will take back benefits equal to $1 for every $2 you are over the limit. If you've again stopped working at the higher amount, and now only working part-time and won't earn more than $18,240 for this year, you'll not be subject to the annual limit. But exceeding the 2019 monthly limit last year will still affect you.

You will receive a form from Social Security asking you to specify your 2019 income month by month for the months you were receiving benefits. Since you exceeded the monthly limit from October through December, they'll be asking you to repay all of the benefits you received for those months. They will give you the option of either repaying them in full in a lump sum, or they will recover what you owe by withholding your monthly benefits until the overpayment is satisfied. That will mean you'll go some months without benefits, the number of months dependent upon your monthly benefit amount and how much you owe them. Remember, you have the option to request the annual limit if it will benefit you.

Though you'll lose benefits for some number of months now, when you reach your full retirement age (66 years and 4 months) they will automatically give you time credit for the number of months they withheld benefits and move your SS claim date forward. That will increase your monthly benefit amount slightly, and you'll get that slightly higher benefit for the rest of your life.

One final point: In the year you reach your full retirement age the annual earnings limit will go up by about 2.5 times and the penalty for exceeding it will be less ($1 for every $3 over the limit). And when you reach your full retirement age the earnings limit goes away entirely.

John's Short Ribs Of Beef With Mushroom Sauce & Polenta

By MARIE

Today's recipe is a truly gourmet one which was from my grandson, John. This delicious entrée features only a few ingredients but they turn into magic in the most delicious entrée ever.

There are a couple of steps you have to take to make this dish, but I am sure that you will love the results. You will need short ribs bone-in.

INGREDIENTS

- 4 short ribs
- 2 large shallots or one medium onion, roughly chopped
- 1 large carrot, roughly chopped
- 1 stalk celery, roughly chopped
- 2 cups of red wine (any wine you like)
- 2 or 3 cups of chicken stock
- ½ can of tomato paste
- 3 tablespoons of olive oil
- Salt and pepper
- Flour or corn starch

Season short ribs with salt and pepper and dredge in flour or corn starch.

In a Dutch oven sauté the ribs in hot oil until golden brown. Sear meat long enough to brown but not to cook through; remove and set aside.

Add the onion, carrot and celery into the pan and cook 3 or 4 minutes on medium heat.

Add in tomato paste and deglaze the bottom of the pan with the red wine. Allow the wine to reduce, and then add the meat back.

Pour in chicken stock enough to submerge the meat in the liquid.

Bake at 275 degrees for 3 to 5 hours or until meats falls off bone.

When finished strain liquid and reduce by one half and this creates a fantastic rich sauce.

POLENTA:

- 1 cup of course ground polenta
- 3 cups of half and half or half cream and half milk
- 3 cups of reduced sodium stock
- 1 package of mushrooms of your choice - Shiitake or Cremini
- Sprig of thyme
- 2 tablespoons of butter and some of the liquid from the short ribs

Scald 3 cups of half and half and 3 cups of stock in a pot. Allow to come to a boil and gradually add the polenta.

Reduce heat and cover pan cook for approximately 45 minutes.

For the mushrooms, sauté in olive oil and thyme and some liquid from the sauce. Cook until mushrooms are tender.

Add butter to give sauce sheen.

Add polenta to the plate and put short ribs on top of polenta and pour mushroom sauce over the top.

Simply sauté onion, pepper, and garlic in saucpan with oil until fragrant.

Add quinoa and toss for a few minutes.

Now add the broth and tomato sauce as well as dried herbs, stir, cover, and simmer until liquid is absorbed, about 15 minutes.

Season to taste with sea salt and toss with a handful of fresh chopped cilantro.

Serve with sliced avocado and salsa, if desired! Great served with a nice large salad.

Staying Healthy While Swimming This Summer

A Message From Ruth Jones, City Of Quincy Health Commissioner

By RUTH JONES
MSPH, BSN, RN,
BC, CP-FS

Swimming and summer are virtually synonymous, but getting ill from bacteria in lakes, rivers and the ocean can really put a damper on the good times, U.S. health officials warn.

Recreational water illnesses (RWIs) are caused by germs and chemicals found in the water that we swim in. They are dispersed by swallowing, breathing in mists or aerosols of tainted water, or having contact with contaminated water in swimming pools, hot tubs, water parks, water play areas, interactive fountains, lakes, rivers, or oceans. RWIs can also be triggered by chemicals in the water or chemicals that turn into gas in the air and cause air quality issues at indoor aquatic facilities.

Comprehending the basic facts about recreational water illnesses can make the difference between a pleasant experience at the pool, waterpark beach, and contracting a rash, having diarrhea, or developing other, potentially dangerous diseases.

Since 2009, nearly 120 disease outbreaks in 31 states have been linked to untreated recreational water. The U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) stress that being aware of possible harms and selecting appropriate precautions are vital in assisting to keep you healthy while you cool off. The chief of the CDC's Healthy Swimming Program notes that swimming is a great opportunity to be physically active, and however the public simply needs to accomplish this in a smarter, healthier manner.

Contamination can occur from a multitude of sources. These include storm water runoff, septic or sewer overflow, or water from farms or wastewater treatment plants. These sources can all add fecal material to the water. Also, animals may defecate on the beach or in the water, adding to the problem.

The most common infections are from bacteria, and include norovirus, Shiga toxin-producing E. coli, Cryptosporidium and Shigella. These bacteria can cause nausea, diarrhea, vomiting and fever. E. coli can potentially cause a dangerous infection that can lead to hemolytic uremic syndrome causing issues with the kidneys and could potentially lead to death. Most often, these conditions will subside on their own, but for some, such as children and the elderly, these infections can be fatal. Older people with chronic conditions or compromised immune systems can be particularly susceptible to getting sick. Swallowing contaminated water is one of the most common ways of getting infected said children swallow twice as much water as those aged 18 and older. So this age group may reminders not to do so.

Another perilous bacteria found in water is the so-called flesh-eating bacteria V. vulnificus, which can cause life-threatening wound infections. The CDC states that only 205 cases of V. vulnificus occur each year, and that is amid millions of Americans who swim in lakes and oceans. Thus, it is very rare. Still, 1 in 7 who contract the disease, will die from the infection, and it is advisable to stay out of salt water if you have a cut or scrape.

Data from the CDC's National Outbreak Reporting System found that between 2009 and 2019, there were 119 outbreaks from recreational water in 31 states that sickened more than 5,200 people. Almost 90% of these outbreaks began popping up from June through August. Additionally, scientists believe that the problem is much larger than the data indicates, due to the fact that many people who experience these illnesses do not go to the doctor or hospital to be evaluated.

Experts note that those who manage swimming areas have a responsibility to ensure the beach and water are not contaminated. They should be consistently monitoring the water quality, looking for harmful bacteria. Furthermore, those in charge should be familiar with the kind of geography and topography of the areas surrounding the beach and the potential sources of contamination.

For safe swimming it is advisable to follow these rules:

- Don't swim when the pool or beach is posted as closed, and check water quality advisories.
- Don't swim when the water is cloudy and/or after a heavy rain.
- Don't swim when sick with diarrhea.
- Don't swallow the water.
- Keep sand out of your mouth.

It is also important to avoid letting your let your children swim if they aren't toilet-trained. Kids who relieve themselves in the water can be a source of bacterial infection. It may also be a good idea to wear swim goggles to keep the water out of your eyes.

Finally, because we are in the midst of a pandemic, even though you won't get COVID-19 from the water, you could contract it from people near you, so it is important to be aware of your surroundings and practice proper distancing. Experts warn people to be extra cautious because of COVID-19, and advise taking a shower before and after swimming, and if you swim in a pool, be sure it's disinfected properly.

Ruth Jones is the health commissioner for the City of Quincy.

Report: Overall Water Quality Safety Rating For Harbor's Beaches Declines

The environmental advocacy organization Save the Harbor/Save the Bay released their annual Metropolitan Beaches Water Quality Report Card July 22, using data from the 2019 beach season.

In 2019, weekly water quality testing at Boston's regional beaches began on May 23. Supplemental daily testing of Constitution Beach, King's Beach, Malibu Beach, Tenean Beach, and Wollaston Beach began on June 13. Testing concluded on Sept. 1.

The scores reflect the percent of samples that complied with the Massachusetts Department of Public Health's single sample limit for bacteria which is the most straightforward way of evaluating beach water quality and potential impacts on human health.

In 2019, the overall water quality safety rating for Boston Harbor's regional beaches owned by the Commonwealth and managed by the Department of Conservation and Recreation was 88%, a decline from the previous year's score of 94%.

Changes in the intensity and frequency of summer storms often explain the variations we see on our beaches from year to year. These seasonal variations are why Save the Harbor/Save the Bay is reluctant to draw conclusions from a single year's sampling results, preferring to rely on the multi-year average we have included in this report.

The year 2019 was one of the wettest years on record for Massachusetts, part of the wettest 12-month stretch in the state's 124 years of record keeping. Some summer storms dropped a month's worth of rain in just a few hours. It was a summer of extremes, with July also being the hottest one on record, making beach accessibility even more critical to the region's residents.

In 2019, four of the region's 15 public beaches (Carson Beach, M Street Beach, City Point Beach and Pleasure Bay, all in South Boston) achieved a perfect score of 100%, making them the cleanest urban beaches in the nation.

Three area beaches (Nahant Beach, Constitution Beach in East Boston, and Nantasket Beach in Hull) scored between 90% and 97%. Four area beaches (Short Beach in Revere and Winthrop, Revere Beach in Revere, Wollaston Beach in Quincy, and Malibu Beach in Dorchester) scored between 83% and 88%, while four area beaches (Savin Hill Beach in Dorchester, Winthrop Beach in Winthrop, King's Beach in Lynn and Swampscott, and Tenean Beach in Dorchester) scored less than 80% in 2019.

"One critical weakness of our beach posting and flagging program, where bacteria testing triggers advisories, is that postings are always a day late because beach managers must wait 24 to 36 hours after a sample is collected to obtain test results," said Bruce Berman, director of Strategy and Communications, Save the Harbor/Save the Bay. "Beach water quality may have already changed significantly during this period, and the prior day's test does not necessarily reflect current conditions.

"In 2019, the Department of Public Health made changes to the beach posting protocols, which resulted in 39 additional days when area beaches were incorrectly flagged as unsafe for swimming, including over the 4th of July weekend. While we recognize the importance of protecting public health, the current system is severely flawed and needs to be improved. Though Save the Harbor/

Save the Bay had hoped to resolve this situation before the start of the 2020 beach season, the COVID-19 pandemic has forced public agencies, advocates and other stakeholders to – rightly – direct their attention and resources to other pressing public health concerns."

"As Save the Harbor continues to address the impacts of systemic racism that has too often prevented people of color from fully enjoying the benefits of our shared $5 billion investment in clean water, it is important to note that access to these urban beaches is particularly important to the region's low-income and BIPOC residents.

"Later this year, and early next, Save the Harbor/Save the Bay will host three forums and a conference on the future of our public beaches, to help our community partners in waterfront neighborhoods and beachfront-communities address systemic racism, sea level rise, and the impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic, all of which threaten public health and safety.

"Working with their policy partners at the MWRA, MADEP and DCR, Save the Harbor will also convene a public meeting of their Beaches Science Advisory Committee, to create a shared understanding and consensus among stakeholders and regulators on how to best address the inadequate and inaccurate posting protocols, to both protect public health and preserve public access to clean water.

"In the interim, instead of simply relying on postings and flags, we urge beachgoers to also rely on common sense and the multi-year average we have included in this report to decide when and where it is safe to swim. And, when you are on the beach, be sure to wear a mask and observe the guidance for social distancing, to protect yourself and your community from COVID-19," Berman added.

On July 20, at approximately 9:15 a.m., Officer Donnelly and Officer M. O'Brien responded to the U.S. Post Office located at 47 Washington St. for a report of a male party inside screaming and causing a disturbance.

Officers arrived on scene within a minute and observed a black male party running out of the post office. He got into a dark gray sedan parked in front of the employee parking lot and took off. The vehicle in question had its emergency flashers on and the male party was in a hurry to leave.

Officer Donnelly exited his unmarked cruiser and post office employees were outside on the front steps telling officers the vehicle that just left was the party that was causing the disorder. The office manager stated the male causing an issue had just thrown a rock through a window inside and almost hit a worker. The manager provided the license plate of the vehicle.

Officer Donnelly advised communications of the registration plate, a description of the car, its direction of travel, and a description of the male. At that time Officer Habib advised communications that she was behind the vehicle at the intersection of Washington Street and McGrath Highway, which is less than a minute drive from the post office.

Officer O'Brien and Officer Donnelly drove to the location of the car stop. Officer Habib had stopped the vehicle at the intersection of Washington Street and Edwards Street. Officer Habib told Officer Donnelly that as the male party got out of his car, he stated to her, "they wouldn't give me my package, and I threw a rock, lock me up if you have to, I don't f@#$%^ care." Officer J. Parisi had arrived on scene to assist, as did Sgt. Igo.

Sgt. Igo requested that Officer Donnelly return to the post office and obtain statements from any victims. Back on scene at the post office, Officer Donnelly spoke to a window clerk. She was working a window when a male party walked up to the window and wanted to pick up a package. She advised the male party that the identification on the package did not match his identification and he could not pick up the item. The male became upset and started to yell and scream that the post office always does this to him.

The male party left the immediate area and then came back and was yelling at the employee. She advised him he did not have a slip to pick up the package and he needed to leave. The male party then walked back by the counter window and started kicking over items and kicking a locked door while screaming "I want my f@#$%^ package now" over and over. He then left the post office completely, to return moments later.

The employee watched as the party threw a medium sized rock (approximately four inches by two inches, weighing approximately two pounds) directly at her. The rock shattered and penetrated the hard plexiglass protection shield, and almost stuck the employee as it passed her head and hit the back wall and broke into several pieces.

Officer Donnelly advised Officer O'Brien, who was still on scene at the car stop, to place the party under arrest. Officer McDermott arrived on scene and transported the suspect to the Quincy Police Station.

The 20-year-old Quincy resident was charged with assault by means of a dangerous weapon (rock) and defacing property. Sgt. Igo arrived on scene at the post office and took pictures of the scene and the damage. The rock was taken from the scene by Officer Donnelly and submitted into evidence.

Early Voting For State Primary Starts Aug. 22

number of steps to protect the safety of voters and election workers this year amid the pandemic. No more than five voters will be allowed inside City Hall at one time, she said, and crowd control measures will be in place to ensure social distancing at North Quincy High School. "That's why we moved to the gym - because it's bigger," Crispo said. "Before, we used the lobby."

On the date of the primary - Tuesday, Sept. 1 - polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. The deadline to register to vote in the primary is 8 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 22. Crispo said there are presently no plans to adjust polling locations that will be used on Sept. 1 and on Nov. 3, the date of the general election.

She said restrictions on the number of voters allowed inside polling places used on those dates would depend on the size of the location. The Quincy police officers assigned to each location, "will be well-versed ahead of time," on those rules, Crispo said.

Those who do chose to vote in person - either during the early voting period or on the date of the election - will be required to wear a face covering; Crispo said extra masks would be provided at polling places for voters who do not have one. Poll workers will be given the option of wearing either a mask or a face shield, she added. Crispo also plans to purchase UV wands that can be used to disinfect pens and the voting booths throughout the day.

Voters are also encouraged to bring their own blue- or black-ink pen if they don't wish to borrow one; a clipboard or book on which they can fill out their ballot, if they don't wish to use a voting booth; and an ID in case they are asked to provide one.

Voters will be required to maintain social distancing, meaning they need to keep six feet away from anyone not from their household. It is recommended that voters do not touch their faces while inside a polling place. Voters, Crispo added, should try to avoid getting hand sanitizer on their ballots throughout the day.

Those recommendations will be posted online so residents can familiarize themselves with them before heading to the polls.

"We will do all that we can to be sure everybody knows what to expect when they vote," Crispo said.

All registered voters are eligible to cast ballots by mail this fall; mail-in voting was previously only allowed for those who would otherwise be unable to make it to the polls on the date of the election.

The Secretary of State's Office is working to mail applications to vote by mail to all registered voters in the state. Quincy voters can return the application by mail (postage is pre-paid and each application is pre-labelled), by placing it in a drop box outside City Hall, or by scanning it and emailing it to lbowes@quincyma.us.

Mail-in ballots can be mailed to City Hall or placed in the drop box outside the building. For the primary, all mail-in ballots - whether mailed or placed in the drop box - must be received by 8 p.m. on Sept. 1 to be counted.

Voters who request a mail-in ballot but do not return it can still vote in-person on the date of the election or during the early voting period. Any voter who has returned a vote-by-mail ballot, or voted early in-person, cannot vote on the day of the election.

Crispo said the early voting period in August will cost the city $74,000, including pay for poll workers, communications, police details, overtime and custodians.

The city will also be responsible for paying the cost to mail the mail-in ballots; the state pays the cost to print the ballots themselves. The total cost to the city for the mail-in ballots will depend on how many residents chose to vote that way, Crispo said; her office will keep track of that number and seek reimbursement from the state.

Topping the ballot in this year's Democratic primary is a contest for U.S. Senate.

The race features incumbent Edward Markey and challenger Joseph Kennedy III, who is currently a congressman.

U.S. Rep. Stephen Lynch is also facing a primary opponent this year, Robbie Goldstein.

The members of Quincy's delegation on Beacon Hill, all Democrats, are unopposed in their party primaries. They are Sen. John Keenan of the Norfolk and Plymouth District; Rep. Bruce Ayers of the First Norfolk District; Rep.

Tackey Chan of the Second Norfolk District; Rep. Ronald Mariano of the Third Norfolk District; and Rep. Daniel Hunt of the 13th Suffolk District.

Five candidates are running for Norfolk County register of probate in the Democratic primary. They are Colleen Brierley, Noel DiBona, Kathryn Hubley, Courtney Madden and Michael Walsh.

Three candidates are running for two county commissioner seats, incumbent Joseph Shea and Dennis Guilfoyle, Charles Ryan and Richard Straiti.

Two candidates are running for county treasurer: Michael Bellotti and Brad Croall.

Three candidates are running in a special election for Norfolk County sheriff. They are James Coughlin, Patrick McDermott and William Phelan.

Christopher Iannella Jr. is running unopposed for a new term on the Governor's Council.

In the Republican primary, there are two candidates running for the U.S. Senate seat, Shiva Ayyadurai and Kevin O'Connor. No Republican candidate is running for Congress in Quincy's district.

Two other Republicans are running in their party primary in Quincy, both unopposed. They are Stephen Tougas, who is seeking the House seat in the Third Norfolk District, and Jerry McDermott, the Norfolk County sheriff who is looking to retain his seat in the special election.

Senate Passes $17 Billion Transportation Bond Bill

and steady supporter of the MBTA. We've got all our Red Line stations here in Quincy and Braintree, we've got commuter rail, so I always support the bonding appropriation for the MBTA," he said.

"It's for construction, modernization, planning, design, modernizing the bus fleet, improving accessibility for riders, and pedestrian access improvements. Some of that work is already going at Quincy Adams and...the Braintree train stations, and this continues the MBTA on the path of updating their stations."

The bond bill also sets aside $2.5 million for improvements to the pier at Squantum Point Park. Quincy is partnering with Winthrop to offer seasonal ferry service between the park and Boston this year; Quincy officials envision using the pier to support permanent ferry service to Boston.

Keenan said the money in the bond bill would allow for upgrades to the pier, including making it compliant with the Americans with Disabilities Act.

"Representative Ayers, myself, the Quincy delegation, we take whatever opportunity we can to get money in bond bills for waterside transportation improvements. So, there is money in there, $2.5 million, for the docks at Squantum Point Park," Keenan said.

"This would allow for pier and dock improvements and to make it weatherized and ADA-compliant. So, it's not the big plan. It's localized money to kind of get Quincy's pier and dock ADA accessible and weatherized so we can move towards more regularized ferry service."

In addition, the bond bill includes $30 million to support improvements to water transportation in the Boston area.

"One of the amendments that I filed to match what the House had done was $30 million for a broader water transportation network with the idea that the seaside communities around Boston would participate in water transportation systems," Keenan said.

"It allows for boat purchase, pier/docks engineering and construction, all those types of things that you would do to have comprehensive ferry service."

Keenan said now is the time to upgrade ferry service to help relieve crowding on the MBTA amid the coronavirus pandemic.

"We think it is more important now because there are going to be people who are hesitant to take the MBTA because it may be too crowded," he said.

"If you can put people on boats where they can be outdoors or where they can be properly distanced...the MBTA hopefully will be a little less crowded and we will have fewer cars on the roads. We think the timing is pretty good for it right now."

The five communities Keenan represents could also receive up to $1 million each for local transportation improvements.

"The other thing I have in there through the Senate process is a million dollars for each of the towns in the district and it is for general transportation roadway, intersection type of work, traffic and parking improvements," he said.

"Each town, if the governor wishes to, would be able to have access to this money."

Governor Extends Moratorium On Evictions, Foreclosures To Oct. 17

gram, landlords or mortgage lenders receive payments directly from the RAFT administering agencies.

During this 60 day extension, the Administration will consult with the court administrators and other stakeholders regarding programs and policies to help tenants avoid eviction when proceedings resume.

The law suspends most residential and small business commercial evictions, as well as residential foreclosures. It does not relieve tenants or homeowners of their obligation to pay rent or make mortgage payments. The law also:

- Prevents landlords from sending notifications to residential tenants that threaten eviction or terminating of a lease;
- Limits court actions on non-essential evictions;
- Relieves tenants, both residents and small commercial, from late fees and negative credit reporting;
- Allows landlords to use "last month's rent" to pay for certain expenses, though not as a replacement rent payment, and only with proper notification of tenant;

• Requires landlords to grant a forbearance for up to 180 days if a homeowner experiencing financial hardship due to COVID-19 submits such a request; and

• Allows for alternative payment agreements between lenders and borrowers regarding forbearance payments.

Since the beginning of the State of Emergency, the Administration has supported housing stability for households across the Commonwealth. The Executive Office of Housing and Economic Development (EOHED) has drafted emergency regulations to implement the notice provisions of the eviction and foreclosure moratoriums.

The Department of Housing and Community Development (DHCD) supported our state-aided public housing and affordable housing operators with guidance, and worked with stakeholders across the state to coordinate resources.

AAA: Gasoline Prices Up One Cent

Massachusetts's average gas price is up one cent from last week ($2.13), averaging $2.14 per gallon. Monday's price is 4 cents higher than a month ago ($2.10) and 60 cents cheaper than July 27, 2019 ($2.74). Massachusetts's average gas price is 4 cents lower than the national average.

"As COVID-19 case numbers surpass 4 million, demand for gasoline is weakening across the country," said Mary Maguire, AAA Northeast director of Public and Legislative Affairs. "The latest Energy Information Administration (EIA) demand reading measures at 8.5 million barrels per day, which is about 11% less than a year ago.

"Gas prices are likely to fluctuate throughout the rest of the summer due to COVID-19 concerns."

O'Donnell Advises Homeowners Of Need To File Mortgage Discharges

Register of Deeds William P. O'Donnell reminds Norfolk County homeowners about the importance of filing a mortgage discharge after their mortgage has been paid off.

"When a mortgage has been paid off, a mortgage discharge document needs to be recorded with the Registry of Deeds to clear a homeowner's property title relative to that loan," O'Donnell said. "This is particularly important in light of the many homeowners currently taking advantage of historically low interest rates to refinance their mortgages. Please note a discharge is a document (typically one-two pages) issued by the lender, usually with a title such as 'Discharge of Mortgage' or 'Satisfaction of Mortgage.'

"There are instances," O'Donnell continued, "where discharges are filed directly by banks or settlement closing attorneys with the Registry as part of a property sale or as a result of a refinancing transaction. In other cases, the mortgage discharge is sent to the property owner who then becomes responsible for making sure the document is recorded. Whether or not a discharge is recorded by the lending institution or the individual property owner, it is important that the property owner makes sure all necessary documents have been recorded at the Registry of Deeds."

To check on their title O'Donnell said Norfolk County homeowners can access the Registry's online records at www.norfolkdeeds.org and verify if all mortgages associated with the property have been discharged. "Please remember not having a mortgage discharged will result in a title issue and thereby impact the process of selling one's home," he said.

O'Donnell noted there have been cases where no discharge has been recorded against a long paid off mortgage.

"Unfortunately, some of the lending institutions that provided funds for these mortgages are no longer in existence. In other cases, financial entities have merged with another lending institution."

If a property owner needs to retrieve an original discharge of a mortgage and is unclear which lending institution is now responsible for providing the document, an option is to contact the Massachusetts Division of Banks at 1-800-495-2265 x-1 and then x-61501. An-

Invite Mother Nature In To Help You Decorate

Ask Barbara Graceffa, 'Secretary Of The Interior'

While home during the pandemic, I'm constantly looking for new ways to stay stimulated. Are there any interior decorating tips you can share to boost my spirits (and my motivation while working at home)? Gloria

Try biophilic design and eco-therapy.

Bio- huh? Eco-what?

I recently participated in a Sherwin-Williams webinar on these two subjects, so I'm happy to share some tips with you.

Biophilia, by definition, is the love of nature. And biophilic design is the science and practice of bringing buildings to life - with the keyword being "life". It is increasingly embraced by architects, engineers, ecologists, and interior decorators who recognize our affinity for nature and its positive influence on our lives.

Used more in city planning and building design than interior decorating, bringing nature into your home can certainly elevate your mood - and for those working at home - your creativity and productivity, too.

friendly choices like low flow faucets to conserve water. Wood and stone are preferred construction materials.

But when it comes to decorating, choose botanical or floral patterns on fabrics or wallpaper. Add a rug made of natural fibers like cotton, silk, or wool. Bring a small fish bowl into your office space to help decrease your stress and increase your performance. Consider a sound machine or smartphone app with soothing sounds of birds chirping; it will improve your mental health 37% faster than urban noise. Artwork depicting nature is both mentally restorative and stimulating.

Decorating with cut flowers, house plants, twig wreaths, and other natural décor pieces is the next best thing to spending time outside. And make sure you have plenty of direct light and ventilation.

Keep your decorating questions coming to keep me stimulated! Be well; be creative.

Do you have a decorating problem needing a professional solution? Send your questions to Secretary of the Interior at barbara@sec-interior.com.

Barbara Graceffa owns and operates Secretary of the Interior, an interior decorating company in Quincy, offering creative solutions at reasonable rates. Heather Hamilton Independent Candidate Norfolk County Commissioner Brookline Select Board member Heather Hamilton has officially qualified as an independent candidate for one of the two Norfolk County Commissioner seats up for election Nov. 3rd.

The three commissioners are elected to staggered four-year terms. Two commissioner seats are on the ballot this fall. One seat is open and the other is currently held by Quincy Democrat Joseph Shea who is running for re-election.

The three commissioners currently control a $31.7 million budget drawn partially from local property assessments with the rest coming from state funds. Amidst the COVID-19 pandemic, Hamilton said she seeks to return as much of this money as possible directly to the county's 28 cities and towns to relieve distressed municipal budgets.

A two-term selectwoman with extensive experience in public administration, Hamilton said she is also passionate about bringing transparency and sustainability to county government. Hamilton, after observing that Commissioner meetings are only accessible via unrecorded conference calls that are not posted online, said Norfolk County residents deserve better.

"As the first woman to run for this office in 16 years, I believe it is critical that an experienced, conscientious public servant committed to transparency fill one of the two seats up for election in November," Hamilton said.

A county resident for over a dozen years, Hamilton began her career in public service ensuring MassDOT complied with accessibility standards before transitioning to lead the largest fleet of publicly-owned vehicles in New England. In this leadership role, Hamilton increased the fleet's percentage of alternative fuel vehicles by almost 50 percent.

"I have always been passionate about sustainability and affordability. My time on the Brookline Select Board focused on making town government more fiscally responsible to ensure those that want to live in this community can afford to do so," Hamilton said. During her time on Brookline's Select Board, Hamilton co-sponsored and worked to adopt warrant articles increasing sustainability, alternative vehicle pilot programs, and senior affordable housing. Seventy-four percent of Brookline voters voted to re-elect Hamilton during the competitive 2020 town election.

Hamilton now seeks to bring her policy-oriented, non-partisan management style to the Norfolk County Commissioners' Office. She is engaging voters in each of the county's 28 communities to learn how she can accommodate the county's diverse needs while finding ways to directly support the county's communities amidst the COVID-19 pandemic.

For more on Heather's biography and policy proposals, visit her website, HeatherHamilton.org.

Five Residents Graduate Pipefitters Local 537 Apprenticeship Program

Five Quincy residents recently graduated Pipefitters Local 537's Apprenticeship Program. They are among the 23 South Shore graduates who will embark on their careers as journeymen pipefitters, welders, and HVAC-R technicians.

The graduates from Quincy are:

Christian Boyde, Christopher Chenette, Patrick Malone, Jonathan Palmer and Michael Tortomasi.

"As our communities re-open from COVID-19, we're proud of all these graduates who will help make sure our economy can safely get back on track," said Tom Kerr, Business Manager and Financial Secretary-Treasurer of Local 537. "These young men and women are now well-equipped for the next stage of their career, where they'll be able to earn sustainable wages and great benefits.

We're immensely proud of them and the skill, craftsmanship, and character they've shown throughout the program."

Quincy Sun photos/Tom Gorman

SHANE O'CONNELL'S mask reminds everyone to practice safe social distancing and stay six feet away.

'Always Strive To Be Better,' NQ Grads Told

By SCOTT JACKSON

North Quincy High School's valedictorian reflected on the life lessons she learned during the past four years, lessons she said would help guide the Class of 2020 for the rest of their lives.

The 280 members of North Quincy's graduating class – each wearing a red cap and gown, and, in a sign of the times, a variety of masks – received their diplomas the evening of July 24 inside Veterans' Memorial Stadium. The ceremony had been scheduled for June but was postponed because of the coronavirus pandemic.

The Class of 2020 was North's 87th graduating class.

Kaylin Chan, the class valedictorian who will attend Cornell University, said she recently found a book, "All I Really Need to Know I Learned in Kindergarten," in her father's office.

"In the book, the author talks about the lessons he learned in kindergarten that have helped him throughout life. For example, share everything, play fair, don't hit people, and one I'm especially fond of, take a nap every afternoon," Chan told her classmates.

"Today, I'd like to tell you that, 'All I really need to know, I learned in high school.'"

First of all, Chan said she learned that making mistakes is all right, as long as you learn from them.

"A bad test score, a science project gone wrong, a fumbled ball, a fight with a friend – high school taught us that it's okay to fail, as long as we get back up and learn from it," she said.

Second, there is nothing more important than your relationships with others.

"Remember to surround yourself with your people – the people who make you happy, the people who inspire you to be a better person, the people who have stuck with you throughout this incredible journey," Chan said. "I'm so grateful for the support from my friends, the advice from my teachers, and the unconditional love from my mom and dad. I couldn't have done this without them."

Third, Chan said she learned there is more than one definition of success. Some of her classmates, she noted, will be joining the military, while others will be going on to college or entering the workforce.

"We are all unique, so our goals and journeys will be unique as well," Chan said. "The important thing is that we are true to ourselves, and that we support one another in reaching our full potential."

Fourth, Chan said it is important to speak up for what you believe in.

"In light of recent events, I'm glad many of us have found our voice, to speak up for Black lives, to defend human rights, to fight racism and discrimination," she said. "We have to continue to do so now, and in the future. The fight doesn't stop here."

Last but not least, Chan said you can never stop learning and growing.

"Always strive to be better, to be more," she said. "More kind, more attentive, more patient, and more helpful. Learning doesn't stop once you're out of school, and growing doesn't stop even when you're 5 feet tall like me!"

Abigail Der, the class salutatorian who will attend Tufts University, implored her fellow classmates to have compassion for others.

"Too many people suffer from this inability to care and commiserate with others. The damage caused by this apathetic indifference is blatantly and painfully clear; it manifests itself in the form of things like not wearing a mask in public, or being complicit in watching the suffering of another human being," Der said.

"So now and in the future, I implore you to try to care. Care about communities and people and their lives and experiences – even if they're strangers, even if you won't benefit, and even if it's hard to do so. I know that compassion is not the solution to all the world's problems – but I believe it's a good place to start."

Class President Ashley Caldwell told her peers that it is important to surround themselves with the right people.

"It was during some of the most difficult times that I was able to see our community draw together. We

'Fight Failure With Progress,' Quincy Grads Told

By SCOTT JACKSON

Quincy High School's valedictorian on Saturday urged his fellow classmates to learn from their mistakes and not let their failures define them.

The 380 members of Quincy High School's Class of 2020, the school's 145th graduating class, received their diplomas during two ceremonies on Saturday, one in the morning and one in the afternoon. The graduates took to the field at Veterans' Memorial Stadium in blue cap and gowns, and many wore special blue Quincy High School masks.

The commencement was originally scheduled for June but was postponed because of the coronavirus pandemic, and two ceremonies were held in order to adhere to social distancing guidelines.

Class Valedictorian Patrick Rak, who will attend Harvard University, began his remarks Saturday by declaring himself a loser.

"Some might claim that I am accomplished, but, in my opinion, I am a loser. Or, if you'd like more proper terms, an anti-winner. And I wouldn't want it any other way," Rak said.

"One of the most interesting facts that I have ever learned is that the most accomplished people tend to be the greatest losers. Walt Disney was fired from a local newspaper for 'lacking creativity.' Albert Einstein failed the entrance exams to the Swiss Federal Polytechnic school at 16. Thomas Edison had 10,000 failed patents."

Rak told his classmates about his own failures, like being rejected for summer internships and never winning a playoff game in four years of soccer and three years of volleyball.

"I never let my failures define me," he said. "Disappointment is a temporary mood swing, not a life sentence. More often than not, people spend days, weeks, or even years mourning over their failures. They often take over people and ruin them.

"I am using my platform here today to offer you one key piece of advice: Fight failure with progress."

Progress, Rak said, "comes from finding an issue, analyzing it, and fixing it."

"Think of it like a graph of the stock market," he said. "It rises up over time, but not without a plethora of bumps and peaks. When I failed to gain a spot in the playoffs, I worked my tail-off in the offseason to try and get better. I communicated with teammates and tried to do everything in my power to improve."

If you let failures define you, Rak said, "you lose not only the battle but the whole war."

"Just look at Winston Churchill, the leader of England during World War II. He once stated that 'success consists of going from failure to failure without a loss of enthusiasm.' If he lost hope after one lost battle, he would have never succeeded," Rak said.

The valedictorian told his fellow classmates not to let the coronavirus define them, even though it cost them the final months of their high school careers.

"Let's be real: We are from Quincy. This isn't Duxbury or Hingham. We are known as the 'nitty-gritty town,' the scrappy one that fights on. We must resonate with that character and channel that courage in our fight through this virus," Rak said.

"It is certainly unfortunate to lose some of the greatest moments of our high school years, and arguably life, but it happens. Just like the fact that my teams never won a single playoff game despite years of hard work, it happens. Just like the fact that many of us didn't get into our dream school, it happens. Just like the fact that many of us didn't get that award or job we wanted so badly, it happens. We cannot let that negativity overcome us."

adopted phrases to rally behind. Phrases like 'Because Nice Matters' and 'Connor Strong,' will always hold a special place in my heart," said Caldwell, who will attend Eastern Nazarene College.

"To paraphrase Nobel prize winner Albert Schweitzer, 'Sometimes our light goes out, but it can be re-ignited by each other.' My hope for all of you is that you will surround yourself with people that will help ignite your flame when life has dimmed it."

Principal Robert Shaw told the members of the graduating class that they deserved and earned the opportunity to graduate together.

"You may be one of our smallest classes in a few years, but you have matched or surpassed all the rest in what you have accomplished and, in particular, endured," Shaw said. "You have earned this moment through your patience, especially these last few months as all of us contend with complex changes to the most basic elements of our lives.

"In many graduation speeches, you might hear a line like, 'You've been through so much to get to this moment,' and it would sound like a throwaway line, but, in this instance, nothing could be more true."

Mayor Thomas Koch reflected on the importance of charity, citing the writings of the Rev. John Hancock and Abraham Lincoln, as well as the Rosary. The word "charity," Koch said, is derived from the Latin word "caritas," meaning love.

"[Charity] is not about dropping a coin in at the Salvation Army kettle or putting it in a cup for a homeless person, though those things are charitable works," Koch said.

"Caritas, which charity comes from, means love. To love all. We're all part of the same human family, so I encourage you in all your future endeavors, wherever School's graduation ceremony – and Quincy High Schools' the following day – was dedicated to Richard Kenneally, who died due to complications from COVID-19 on July 2.

A North Quincy High School graduate, Mr. Kenneally worked in the school system for 30 years and was the director for the combined high school band prior to his retirement in 2019.

"Mr. Kenneally was part of commencement ceremonies like this one for three decades," Shaw said.

Regis College, said the Class of 2020 "displayed remarkable resilience and ambition."

"Congratulations to us, arguably one of the most historic senior classes ever due to a certain turn of events. However, we've faced many challenges throughout these four years of high school and these four years have been the most memorable times of our lives so far," Le said.

"We've made countless memories and achievements, from being the largest group of [National Honor Society] members Quincy High has ever had, to our amazing girls' volleyball team, and of course, beating North at the Thanksgiving Day football game."

Le said the class could not have done it alone and commended the teachers and staff at Quincy High School for their support, as well as the parents and guardians for being there throughout her classmates' journey.

"Most importantly I want to appreciate our friends, who have given us laughter, TikToks, and a reason to go to school every day," Le said.

Principal Lawrence Taglieri said he was glad the school was able to hold an in-person graduation. He thanked a number of people for making the ceremony possible, including the school's teachers and staff, city officials, and the Boston Cannons.

"The greatest appreciation of all is to you, the Class of 2020, to you and your families," Taglieri said. "Thank you for your patience, your understanding and your resolve. Making the best of difficult situations is a trait that will serve you well in the future."

"Your class has always been thought of as a close-knit group of friends who support each other. That was apparent long before the pandemic, but certainly made all the more clear as you traversed through these extraordinary times."

Mayor Thomas Koch said graduation is his favorite day of the year.

"It is the culmination of the incredible work done by the Quincy Public Schools family," he said. "Along the way I'm sure that you can look back at a particular teacher, coach, guidance counselor, that made a big difference."

"Your families entrusted you to the Quincy Public Schools family, and I believe we have the best in our faculty, teachers and staff."

Kevin Mulvey, the interim school superintendent, said the graduates define perseverance.

"Perseverance is the relentless attempt to achieve success and accomplish your desired goals," he said. "This is characterized by three traits, which are keys to unlocking the door to success."

Those three traits, Mulvey said, are never giving up, not being limited by time constraints and staying rooted in the confidence that success is inevitable.

"You have done all these things, and in doing so have better prepared yourself for future adversity," he said.

School officials on Sunday announced that one parent who attended the 10 a.m. graduation ceremony on Saturday had tested positive for COVID-19.

Mulvey, in an open letter, said "there is a low risk of transmission to the majority of those attending the ceremony," because of the precautions that were in place.

Everyone inside the stadium was required to wear a mask or face covering, seats were assigned to ensure guests were spaced six feet apart in the stands, and ingress and egress to and from the stadium was staggered.

The Quincy Health Department, Mulvey added, had completed contact tracing and those potentially affected were notified. Anyone who assisted with a medical emergency during the ceremony was asked to call the Health Department at 617-376-1272.

HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD — Bette Midler, who played Dolly Levi on Broadway in "Hello, Dolly!" and Mama Rose in the TV production of "Gypsy" (for which she won an Emmy), will star in an HBO movie as the legendary Mae West. Director William Friedkin (Oscar winner for "The French Connection" and a nominee for "The Exorcist") will direct a script by Harvey Fierstein (who wrote "Torch Song Trilogy" and "La Cage Aux Folles") based on Mae West's 1959 autobiography, "Goodness Had Nothing to Do With It." When I first met and photographed the sex symbol, she was filming "Myra Breckinridge" and her "escort" was an unknown actor named Tom Selleck. Midler has the right amount of campiness to play West, who was a sex symbol until the day she died at age 87.

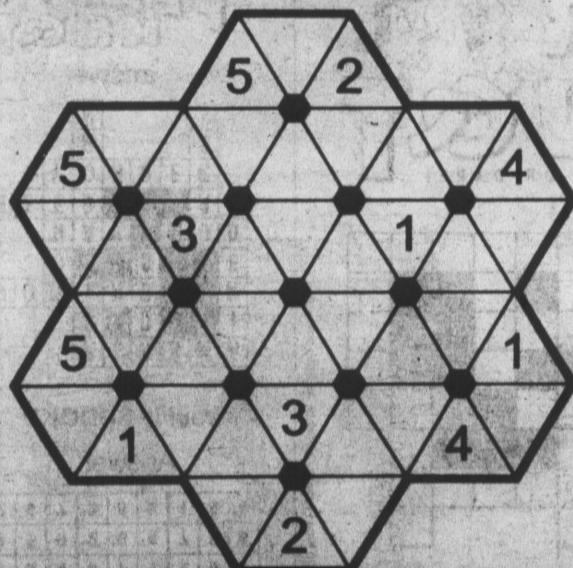

Now that talk shows are interviewing guests from their homes, thanks to social distancing, are we really ready for a miniseries that was shot in the homes of the cast on their smartphones? The new service Quibi dropped what it's calling a miniseries DIY remake of the classic 1987 film "The Princess Bride." Instead of being a feature-length movie, it features short bursts of scenes, under five minutes, with an array of big-name stars playing the same roles in different segments. With Norman Lear's blessing (he holds the film rights) and under the direction of "Ghostbusters" director Jason Reitman, this "fan-made" re-creation will bene-

Each puzzle consists of a square grid with numbers appearing in all squares. The object is to shade squares so:

- Shaded (black) squares do not touch each other vertically or horizontally.
- When completed, all un-shaded (white) squares create a single continuous area.

and can break up some of the oils. Its aroma also helps mask the skunk scent, at least temporarily.

Another cleaning recipe, found on American Kennel Club's website (www.AKC.org), mixes baking soda with mild detergent and household hydrogen peroxide (3% strength). The foaming mixture can be worked into your dog's coat, left on for about five minutes and then rinsed away.

With any solution or recipe you use, be careful to not let it get into Jumper's eyes, ears or nose. Many of the ingredients are irritants that can cause a lot of discomfort.

Deodorizing your car will take some extra effort. You can gently clean the upholstery, floor mats and headliner with a cloth dipped in a solution of water and baking soda. The baking soda will dry to a haze and needs to be vacuumed off. Follow up with a shampoo formulated for car interiors.

OBITUARIES

Gerald J. Ryan, Jr., 70

A funeral Mass for Gerald J. "Jerry" Ryan, Jr., age 70, of Dennis, formerly of Quincy, was celebrated July 25 in St. Mary's Church, Quincy.

Mr. Ryan died July 21 surrounded by his wife and children.

Born in Boston, to the late Doris T. (Bellenoit) and Gerald J. Ryan, Sr., he was raised in Quincy. He was a graduate of Quincy High School, Class of 1968, and received a BS in civil engineering from Northeastern University in 1973.

Mr. Ryan began and ended his career working for the City of Boston's Department of Public Works as a civil engineer, retiring in 2011 as chief engineer of the Public Improvement Commission. After retirement, he was a member of the Dennis Golf Courses since 2012 and an active member of Friends of Dennis Pickleball.

Mr. Ryan had a love for storytelling and was known for his sarcastic and self-deprecating sense of humor. He never missed an opportunity to have ice cream for dessert. He had a kind heart, and when he asked how you were doing, he genuinely cared and listened to your answer.

He was tremendously handy and used his talents to transform the Cape house into a dream home. Mr. Ryan loved Jeopardy, fantasy football, giving generous gifts chosen at the eleventh hour, singing for a crowd, and a properly loaded dishwasher. He was extremely loved and will be missed.

Beloved husband for forty-three years of Joan C.

GERALD J. RYAN, JR.

(McCaffrey) Ryan, the sunshine of his life. Devoted father of Stephen P. Ryan and his wife Marissa, Michael D. Ryan and his wife Holly, Kaitlin B. Ryan and her fiancé Matthew Johnson. Loving grandfather of Mirabelle, Sullivan, Fitzgerald, Sydney, and Liam.

Dear brother of Margaret A. "Peggy" Orlando and her husband Thomas, Karen R. Kane and her husband Timothy, Kathleen A. Ryan, Richard P. Ryan, Timothy J. Ryan, Sharon T. Ryan (is the baby), and the late Kevin P. Ryan and his surviving wife Patricia. He is also survived by many nieces, nephews, and in-laws.

Interment at Oak Ridge Cemetery, Dennis.

The Hofbrau, located at 400 Sea St., also closed last week. City officials said three employees of that restaurant tested positive.

Jones said each restaurant would be closed for two weeks from the last known date of exposure. In each case, she said the restaurant was required to sit empty for 24 hours with windows open to provide ventilation. The space must then be deep cleaned.

"There is a low risk of transmission to the majority of those attending the ceremony," Kevin Mulvey, the interim superintendent said, because of the precautions that were in place for the event. Everyone inside the stadium was required to wear a mask or face covering, seats were assigned to ensure guests were spaced six feet apart in the stands, and ingress and egress to and from the stadium was staggered.

Mayor Thomas Koch, in his daily update on Monday, said the parent had been feeling ill when they went to the ceremony and urged residents to stay home if they feel unwell, even if they suspect it is only a cold. "If you're not feeling well stay home," Koch said. "Don't put other people in jeopardy please."

He also stressed the importance of wearing masks, social distancing and proper hygiene.

"Folks please use good judgement. If you're out walking or riding your bike at night, you don't have to wear a mask but if you're going to be around people, please wear a mask. Wash your hands and do your best to social distance," Koch said.

"We've got to get through this together as a community. I ask for your continued cooperation."

FIRE broke out at 25 Hanna St. in Quincy Point shortly after 6 p.m. Monday. Officials said it began in the back of the house (pictured) while a resident was grilling. Four alarms were raised as firefighters contended with temperatures in the 90s. Three firefighters were taken to an area hospital for heat exposure.

FIREFIGHTERS inspect the home at 25 Hanna St. after 8 p.m. on Monday. The single-family home was likely a total loss, according to Deputy Chief Timothy Burchill. The home's occupants were able to make it out safely.

Four-Alarm Fire Guts Quincy Point Home

By SCOTT JACKSON

A four-alarm fire tore through a Quincy Point home Monday evening, gutting the single-family structure.

The fire at 25 Hanna St. broke out shortly after 6 p.m. Monday. Deputy Fire Chief Timothy Burchill said the blaze began in the rear deck of the home while a resident was grilling. Burchill said there was likely a leak in the propane tank that led to the fire. It "accelerated very quickly" because of the propane, he stated.

"The propane tank was flaring up and it was directing itself directly at the house. The whole rear of the house went up and we did have an explosion, so we believe the propane tank exploded in the process," Burchill said.

Firefighters contended with temperatures in the 90s and a triple-digit heat index when they arrived on scene. The department called in four alarms to provide extra manpower because of the hot weather.

"Too hot - very, very hot. It went to a four-alarm basically for manpower," Burchill replied when asked about the weather. "We used a lot of the guys for manpower so we could get some relief for the guys who were working."

Roughly 75 firefighters were on scene Monday, including companies from Boston and Braintree. Three firefighters were taken to a hospital for heat exposure, Burchill said, but they were doing fine and recuperating as of 8:30 p.m. Monday.

The residents of the home were able to make it out safely, the deputy chief said, though a pet cat was unaccounted for.

The home at 25 Hanna St. was likely a total loss, Burchill said. The exteriors of the homes on either side of 25 Hanna St. were also damaged.

Burchill advised residents to be safe if they choose to grill.

"As with everything, safety is first," he said. "Keep your grills away from your house. Every year, inspect them to ensure they are in good working condition."

Boston Cannons Win Lacrosse Championship

The Boston Cannons are the 2020 Major League Lacrosse champions.

In an unprecedented season, the Cannons will leave Annapolis with the MLL trophy after earning a 13-10 victory over the Denver Outlaws at Navy-Marine Corps Memorial Stadium July 26.

The Cannons grabbed a quick 2-0 lead with goals from John Uppgren and Ben Spencer before Max Adler turned it on at the faceoff-X, allowing the Outlaws to score four straight from 9:34 to 8:09. Dan Bucaro scored a natural hat-trick in this span while John Grant Jr. picked up Denver's fourth. After an early lead, the Cannons already found themselves in a 4-2 hole. However, the Cannons ended the first quarter on a three-goal run with a goal from Mark Cockerton and two from Uppgren — giving him a first quarter hat-trick. Boston led 5-4 after 15 minutes.

In the second quarter, the Outlaws took their second lead of the day off a 2-pointer from Pat Aslanian with 9:40 left to play. Outlaws defenseman Kyle Pless stripped Cockerton in his defensive zone and rushed it up field before dishing to Aslanian for the goal. Cockerton redeemed himself about two minutes later on a relentless effort to make it 6-6 at 7:46.

As the clock wended down in the second, the Cannons gained control of the ball late and were able to set up Justin Pugal for a 2-pointer, who beat the buzzer to give Boston an 8-6 lead at halftime.

The Cannons got off to a quick start in the third quarter with goals from Bryce Wasserman, Cockerton, and Uppgren to take an 11-6 lead. After that, Boston got another scare as the Outlaws rifled in three straight goals to pull it to 11-9. Momentum seemed to be turning, but the Cannons responded with tallies from Uppgren and Challen Rogers to make it 13-9. Chris Aslanian notched his third at 1:48 to make it 13-10.

After 23 goals were scored in the first three quarters, there were none in the final frame and just three shots on goal in total. Each team got their chances, but several Denver turnovers gave the Cannons some free possessions to drain the clock. Boston took the ball with under a minute to go and bled the clock dry to win it.

BBB Tip: Scammers Steal Addresses Of Empty Homes

home insurance provider about getting coverage.

- Notice the warning signs. If you start receiving messages or mail directed to your vacant property with someone else's name, or complaints regarding rental agreements or sales you did not make, it's time to investigate the matter further.

Tips for renters:

- Confirm the identity of the landlord. A legitimate landlord won't hesitate to show you their ID and will allow you to take a picture. You should be able to confirm they are the real property owner by checking county registers.

- Know local rental prices. If someone offers you a great rental for an extremely low price, proceed with caution.
- See the property first. Never sign a lease or make a deposit without seeing the property in person first.

- Never wire money to a stranger. Don't give in to a sob story. If you wire money to a stranger and they don't keep up their end of the deal, you'll have no way to get your money back. Legitimate landlords should always accept payment by check.

- Watch out for red flags. If a property has a "for sale" sign, but the "landlord" wants to rent, something is up. It's also suspicious if you arrive to a property and find a broken lockbox.

- Use the services of a reputable rental agency.

This will give you an added layer of protection as you carry out your search.

Tips for consumers:

- Look out for too-good-to-be-true deals. Know the normal price range of the item you want to purchase and be wary if you see the same product available at a steeply discounted price.

- Double check the "business address." If a website you aren't familiar with has a business address, take a few moments to search the address. If the address pops up on a map as a residential address or at-a vacant property, you're probably not dealing with a legitimate business.
- Make purchases through a reputable online retailer. Double check business ratings at BBB.org and read through customer reviews before you decide to do business with an online retailer.

Group Urges Lawmakers To Pass Safe Communities Act

To the Editor:

Immigrants in Massachusetts have been some of the hardest hit by COVID-19 – both in terms of infection rates, and economically, especially as many are shut out from crucial safety-net programs. Immigrant communities have been part of the social fabric of cities like Quincy and have made significant contributions to the economy as essential workers. However, in the current political climate, immigrant families have increasingly become fearful and concerned about their safety when seeking support with domestic violence, sexual abuse, health care or going to community COVID-19 testing centers.

The widespread fear of deportation among immigrants is a moral and public health issue. We cannot remain as bystanders witnessing this social injustice and everyone's rights to safety.

We urge Stephen F. Lynch, Edward Markey and Elizabeth Warren to listen to the advice of medical experts and pass the Safe Communities Act as immediately as possible to ensure human rights protections will be provided for immigrant communities to feel safe.

Baker-Polito Administration Expands

Targeted Free COVID-19 Testing Sites

The Baker-Polito Administration announced Monday an expansion of its "Stop the Spread" initiative, which provides free COVID-19 testing in targeted communities across the Commonwealth.

This expansion includes new testing sites in Agawam, Brockton, Methuen, Randolph, Revere, Springfield, Taunton and Worcester. The Administration previously launched free testing sites in Chelsea, Everett, Fall River, Lawrence, Lowell, Lynn, Marlborough and New Bedford, bringing the total number of communities served, with Monday's expansion, to 16.

The Stop the Spread initiative is a data-driven focused effort to reduce the prevalence of COVID-19 in communities that are above the state average in total cases, positive test rate, and have experienced a decline in testing levels since April. All residents of these 16 communities, including asymptomatic individuals, are urged to use these sites to get tested. While these sites are being launched in these communities, they are open to all residents of the Commonwealth.

The population of the new cities in which the free testing will be conducted – Agawam, Brockton, Methuen, Randolph, Revere, Springfield, Taunton and Worcester – make up approximately 10% of the Commonwealth's population. However, these communities have seen 15% of the Commonwealth's positive tests in the last two weeks.

The statewide positive test rate over the past two weeks is approximately 1.7%, but in these 8 communinities, the positivity rate is nearly 50% higher, at 2.3%.

Despite the continued elevated spread in these communities, total testing in these communities has declined over 20% since the end of April, while the statewide average has been flat over that time period. The total cases as a percentage of population for these communities is nearly double the state average.

Since launching Stop the Spread on July 10, 19,083 residents have been tested at these free testing sites. So far, the COVID-19 Command Center has received results back for 17,189 individuals, with a positivity rate just under 1.8%. The Command Center expects these numbers to change as additional testing results come in.

The Administration's first expansion of testing in 8 communities – Chelsea, Everett, Fall River, Lawrence, Lowell, Lynn, Marlborough and New Bedford – has successfully increased testing in those communities.

In the first week, testing in those 8 communities was up 48% over the week before those sites went live, and statewide, testing was up 24%.

Residents of the 16 communities can visit mass.gov/stoptospread to find testing locations, which will be available through Aug. 14.

Residents are reminded that if they test positive for COVID-19, please answer the call when they are contacted by the Community Tracing Collaborative or their local board of health. Also, any individual who needs a safe place to isolate can call (617) 367-5150 to access an isolation and recovery site at no cost.
